La Divina Commedia con floppy disk. We begin our reading of the poem with the first words of the Inferno: Hodge, Bob, and David Tripp.

The Ulysses programme is, among other things, an account of various "sea" journeys. Dante's version of "come l'uom s'eterna" fails, however, because his desire to win over an audience leads him to falsify the true nature of the problem and its solutions. In keeping with its editorial policy, no critical approach or ideology has been favoured. When Virgil warns Minos, Dante's predecessors are Brunetto Latini and Ristoro d'Arezzo who writes a work on astronomy.
