People who work in broadcasting want to develop their voice for TV or radio so that they sound professional the minute they first speak into a microphone. Decades ago, finding your broadcast voice was simple. Vocal training means sounding less like an announcer and more like you.

Knowing how to write a TV news script is key to a reporter's success. These tips will add value to your TV news script writing. However, you can perfect your TV news writing style if you learn the basics. Unlike a newspaper story, your broadcast audience only gets one chance to understand your story.

The Hands-On Guide to Streaming Media Basics is designed with the intelligent beginner in mind. Ever wondered why television news departments go "live to the scene"? Because a "live" storyteller (the reporter) adds an extra emotional edge, even you should consider producing a live broadcast when you can capture and.
