Marine Insurance Law Dr. Case-studies include the negotiation of new rules on fisheries subsidies, the restriction of trade in endangered marine species and the adjudication of fisheries import bans.

Margaret Young shows how these and other factors affect the interaction between regimes. Divided logically into the process of international law-making, the implementation of the laws and institutional agreements, and then adjudication, this part demonstrates the multiple problems that cause fragmentation in the ever-growing complexities of fisheries management. Margaret Young shows how these and other factors affect the interaction between regimes. Her empirical and doctrinal analysis moves beyond the discussion of conflicting norms that has dominated the fragmentation debate.
